

Peanut On A String

N E W S L E T T E R

VOL. I. NO. 1

1989 SPRING TOUR

NOT A PRODUCT OF CHILE

TIMELESS LEGUME LITERATURE

Happy birthday. The first Peanut On A String Newsletter, the second Peanut On A String handout, completely free. Hello. This is to be a forum for all Peanut On A String discussion. Commentary that our patrons wish to send us we will print in future issues (space permitting) because we love getting things in the mail. Are you an artist? We'll print your peanut art. Do you like writing? Send us a peanut story. Anything in good taste (because peanuts taste good) (well, we think they do). If you want Peanut On A String pen pals, we'll print your address. The Mellow Corporation has been distributing Peanut On A String and related literature since Buckeye Lake, 1988 summer tour (remember? You were there), and plans to continue and encourage those who wish to pass along the Peanut On A String idea. Property is theft, if you don't need it, pass it along. God Bless the Grateful Dead.

Peanut On A String
116 W. Lancaster Avenue
Downingtown, PA 19335
Please write soon for new address
This address invalid after 9/1/89

22

let's hear it for

the Good Guys

- People who take only pictures and leave only footprints
- Greenpeace
- Deadheads (Rumored to be true)
- Those guys who follow Deadheads around playing music (you know, those guys. Yeah.)
- Coat Hanger Manufacturers (coat hangers are the universal tool)
- Larry Fine
- SENA
- Women (they're smarter)
- Farmers (especially peanut farmers)
- Penguins

(eah! Hooray! Yippie! Bravo! Keep it up! Hoo hah! Ding ding! Wahoolazooma!
22

let's hear it for

the Bad Guys

- PEOPLE WHO GO TO DEAD SHOWS (OR ANYWHERE FOR THAT MATTER) AND LEAVE THEIR FUCKING TRASH LYING AROUND
- PEOPLE WHO DRIVE SUPERTANKERS DRUNK
- PEOPLE WHO LEAVE PUBIC HEAIRS ON THE SINK
- PEOPLE WHO BUILD DAMS IN JUNGLES FOR NO GOOD REASON
- NAZIS AND FUCKHEADS
- CABLE TV OPERATORS WHO ARBITRARILY CHANGE WHICH CHANNELS THEY CARRY EVERY DAMN MONTH

Boo. Hiss. Yuck. Raw deal. Bad Scene. Various Cat Calls. Do better or else!

BRIGHT BLUE BALL
JUST SPINNIN'
SPINNIN' FREE

DIZZY
WITH ETERNITY

You know, peanuts outnumber us and they could easily take over. So respect peanuts and learn from them. They can help.

PEANUT RAP THE LEGUME LOWDOWN

Peanut On A String is a source of natural energy. If you're hungry you can eat it. There's protein in the nuts and fiber in the shell.

The string can replace a broken shoe lace. You can use it for tinder to start a fire in the wilderness (although you should be saving your navel lint for this). You can tie a glow stick to it and whip it around your head in the dark (don't hit anybody else).

Try eating the peanut during Drumz. Crunching noises add to percussion.

If you are lost, hold peanut on a string at arm's length. Peanut will point to a phone booth (not necessarily the closest one).

If you need to go, crack an end of the peanut and remove one nut. Peanut will now point to bathroom (not necessarily the closest one).

Remove both nuts and peanut makes a good whistle. Place peanuts on floor in front of your doorway when you're asleep. Crunching sounds will alert you to intruders.

Don't eat red pistachios. The coloring is bad for you. (This public service message provided to show that we are not prejudiced against other nuts, just wild about peanuts.)

Our friend was buried with his peanut. How about that. The original Peanut On A String was found on the New Jersey Turnpike. So we're not responsible. Dogs love peanuts. Dogs love to wear peanut on a string. So do cats, although they have much more fun batting at it if you hang it from a doorknob Peanut On A String Newsletter is printed up every now and then and is a product of Scary Man Graphics and The Mellow Corporation. Do not sell this literature. Please photocopy it and give it to your friends or just anybody who won't drop it in the street.